Dear Sir,

In reference to the front page of last week's Barph. If as you claim the person 'spreading the word around College that S.R.C. elections will have no chance of being fair' is wrong then he rightly deserves to be exposed. If he has a lack of 'fairness, charity and honesty' as you claim he should not be standing for election - we don't need people like this on the S.R.C. If on the other hand the fairness of the elections is in doubt and he has questioned it he has done the right thing. If this is the case he has showed 'fairness' (to other candidates), 'charity' (to the rest of the College) and 'honesty' (to all).

I do not wish to take sides in the matter until the situation is clarified and I hope that the truth will emerge.

I would, however, like to make a number of observations.

1. There was no discussion between Toby and the person talked about prior to the publication of Barph - it was Toby's responsibility as Student Officer to do this.
2. Both sides of the dispute should have been published at the one time - one side only of the dispute being published meant that the candidates chances in the election were severely hindered as he could not support his case in a student publication before the elections.
3. The article attacks all Christians standing for election (there are more than one) as it does not name the person but names him 'Christian' - this is grossly unjust.
4. This article appears to be knocking all organised Christianity - why is this - the organised Christian body on Campus (C.F.) had nothing to do with prompting Christians to stand for S.R.C. We support them but were not the instigators in their standing.

HUGH MacCALLUM, Christian Fellowship President.

Dear Friend,

I am acting for an Aboriginal Co-Operative on the Yarrabah Aboriginal Reserve near Cairns, North Queensland.

This Co-Operative is interested in developing a student vacation scheme which would:

- (a) Permit students to visit a reserve. Access to such reserves is normally fairly limited under Queensland Legislation.

- (b) Provide accommodation facilities in amazingly beautiful surroundings.
- (c) Provide the opportunity for fishing, swimming, hiking, hunting etc.
- (d) Provide the teaching of the Aboriginal culture particularly of the KUNGANJI and YEDINJI tribes of the area.
- (e) Provide an education on-the-spot as to the operation of "The Queensland Act".
- (f) Develop an exchange of information and understandings for both students and Aboriginal residents.

I should underline that this is a totally Aboriginal controlled project. As such there is the further consideration of some financial benefit to the Co-Operative who have a number of plans to advance the people there. They would seek to charge some fee per week.

They thought of each camp as lasting for several weeks and taking 40 to 100 students (depending on interest and facilities).

The Co-Operative has asked me to get your views on such a scheme and to ascertain the number of students you might have interested. They can then feel more confident in commencing work on the scheme, most of the workers for this scheme being unemployed at present. The Co-Operative presently operates a farm and a bakery and is well organized, but cautious. I personally believe that the scheme will provide a unique holiday and an unprecedented opportunity for all parties. IF INTERESTED, SEE TOBY.

A REPLY: 'CORRUPTION? RIGGED ELECTIONS?'

This is a reply to an article which appeared in "Barph", Vol. 3, No. 29, of last week, titled, "Corruption? Rigged S.R.C. Elections?" and signed by T. Prentice. I believe Toby was misinformed.

I would like to state the following facts:

1. I have at no stage stated that Toby Prentice or any other person would or was going to 'rig' the Elections.
2. I have never urged any candidate to withdraw their nomination for any reason.

However, I have been critical of the election procedures and expressed my concern to four second year candidates the week before the election, with a view to having procedures changed. After discussing election procedures with Toby on Thurs. 27th Oct. I then decided it was too late to instigate changes for this election. After this time, nothing more was said to anyone about the procedures. This hardly constitutes the 'smear tactics' Toby refers to.

The amateurish level on which the elections were run vindicates my earlier concerns. There are a number of incidents supporting this view, no least the fact that the master roll with names of those who had voted was 'lost' - apparently inadvertently taken home, when it should have been locked away with the ballot boxes.

I do not imply that 'rigging' occurred, but again I state that it illustrates the amateurish level of the election procedure and highlights the need for a written policy on Election Procedures, including the type of Preferential Counting system used. This should be issued to all candidates well before the election, with a period in which any objections can be lodged.

I was not consulted or given the chance to reply in the same edition of 'Barph', I can only assume that this was an attempt to discredit me as a candidate. Unfortunately, the article in question also cast aspersions on at least one other candidate.

I would like to know the name of the candidate who allegedly withdrew his/her nomination at my urging.

David A. Scott

MOST OF THIS ARTICLE IS FALSE

Two candidates and several non-candidates came and saw me to report that David Scott was alleging that I personally would 'rig' the election so that only friends would get in. The fact that these several people in no way knew each other proves that Mr. Scott's denial is false. It was only after the Barph article appeared that his tack changed to-one of "I am only critical of election procedures generally."

One candidate withdrew and another expressed his intention of doing so - in both cases, because of being convinced by Mr. Scott that I would see to it that only my friends would get in. I don't have to take that sort of snivelling slander from anyone - least of all an expert at such tactics, such as Scott. It was for that reason that I decided - after some deliberation - to publish a defence of my own name and the conduct of the election, both of which were being cynically maligned by Scott. The fact that all this came to light in the last week meant that there was only one issue of Barph to come out before the elections.

Short of sheer maliciousness, the only ^{APPARENT} reason for Scott's allegations, would be some sort of "insurance" to preserve his dignity if his candidature was unsuccessful, "insurance" that turned out to be unnecessary.

Finally, I would like to thank all those who assisted me in running this extremely complicated election (with 4 voting locations and spread over 2 days), particularly Kris Albietz who took charge of counting from Thursday evening over the Friday when I was off sick.

The election was professional in all ways without even taking into account the fact that almost all the labour was voluntary. The fact that counting was held up for $\frac{1}{2}$ an hour on Friday while the roll was obtained from the last person attending the ballot box, was in no way amateurish or harmful to the conduct of the election. As the Christians' scrutineer will testify, the votes cast balanced with the names crossed off on the roll to within 4. As for the "number of incidents" to which our friend darkly refers without elaboration, - one can only assume they are typical figments of his opportunistic and flexible imagination. The Preferential System used was the one always used, which is the one employed by the College in all ballots, and which is, we are informed, the normal Commonwealth Electoral system.

Successful Candidates were:-

2nd Year

John Adams
Betina Blake
Walter Dirix
David Scott
Gary Tilley

3rd Year

Robert Mathews
Catherine Murname
David Purchase
Neil Quinn
Robert Walls

T. PRENTICE,
