

RW 114/3-9

The Sydney Morning Herald, Tues., Oct. 30, 1956

TO-DAY the Dame Mary Gilmore memorial gates at the main entrance to the Teachers' College, Wagga, will be formally opened.

They were given to the college by the 1956-57 session of students and are of wrought-iron, to the design of Mr. Lionel Gailer, lecturer in art.

Mr. G. L. Blakemore, the college principal, says that in their delicate line they capture the spirit of "Jiamba," the evening or dancing star, which was the name the aborigines bestowed on Dame Mary when she was a child in Wagga, where she was born.